

Spring launch — pricing page

https://demo.example.com/pricing-launch · audited 2 Aug 2026, 11:49

48 out of 100 · six weighted categories

Main button effectiveness · 25%	34
User experience · 20%	36
Visual design · 20%	59
Trust · 15%	40
Speed · 10%	74	Based on a single page load, not a full performance audit.
Accessibility · 10%	71	An AI estimate based on contrast and font size — not a real accessibility audit.

What to fix, in order

HIGH · HERO

1. The main button sits on a background of almost the same tone, so it does not read as the thing to press

Evidence: Cta click rate in Hero: 2.1%. 97% of visitors see this section.

Do this: Raise the button contrast to at least 4.5:1 against its background and increase its height to 48px.

If it works: Button clicks 2.1% → 4.2-6.3%

HIGH · FOOTER

2. The heading states a feature rather than an outcome the reader wants

Evidence: Section reach in Footer: 9%. Footer starts 91% of the way down the page.

Do this: Rewrite the heading as the result the visitor gets, in their own words.

If it works: More visitors reaching Footer, which is the precondition for it converting at all

MEDIUM · HERO

3. On a phone the headline renders around 11px and the button falls below the first screenful

Evidence: Mobile bounce rate in Hero: 81%. 17 percentage points worse than the 64% overall bounce rate.

Do this: Set body text to at least 16px on small screens and pull the button above the fold.

If it works: Phone bounce 81% → closer to the 64% you see overall

4. There is no testimonial, customer logo or security badge anywhere in the first screenful

Evidence: Bounce rate in Hero: 64%. No proof of any kind in Hero, the first thing visitors see.

Do this: Move two recognisable customer logos and one short quote above the fold.

If it works: Bounce 64% → 54-59%

The page, section by section

Hero · 0% down the page · scored 51/100

— The main button sits on a background of almost the same tone, so it does not read as the thing to press. Raise the button contrast to at least 4.5:1 against its background and increase its height to 48px.

— There is no testimonial, customer logo or security badge anywhere in the first screenful. Move two recognisable customer logos and one short quote above the fold.

— On a phone the headline renders around 11px and the button falls below the first screenful. Set body text to at least 16px on small screens and pull the button above the fold.

Features · 16% down the page · scored 72/100

— The heading states a feature rather than an outcome the reader wants. Rewrite the heading as the result the visitor gets, in their own words.

Testimonials · 38% down the page · scored 62/100

— The heading states a feature rather than an outcome the reader wants. Rewrite the heading as the result the visitor gets, in their own words.

Pricing · 56% down the page · scored 48/100

— The plans are readable, but this section sits a long way down the page. Move pricing above the testimonials, or repeat the main button just before it.

FAQ · 76% down the page · scored 73/100

— The heading states a feature rather than an outcome the reader wants. Rewrite the heading as the result the visitor gets, in their own words.

— The heading states a feature rather than an outcome the reader wants. Rewrite the heading as the result the visitor gets, in their own words.

Every recommendation above names a real metric, a real number and a real section. Anything that could not do so was discarded rather than shown.